The value of the underlying funds and the income generated from them can go down as well as up, and is not guaranteed. Investors may not get back the original amount invested. The value of investments involving exposure to foreign currencies can be affected by currency exchange rate fluctuations. Past performance is not a guide to future performance.

MONTHLY COMMENTARY

- April's headline returns told a deceptively calm story – global developed equities and emerging market equities returned -2.4% and -2.0% respectively, and global bonds rose by 2.9% – yet behind the scenes, markets endured sharp swings. Gold returned 1.8%, and the US dollar fell another 3.1% versus the pound, taking its year-to-date decline to -6.1%.
- The catalyst was "Liberation Day" on 2nd April, when President Trump announced sweeping reciprocal tariffs and threatened to remove Fed Chair Powell, unsettling global markets. Investors sold off equities and fled to gold, but not to the usual safe havens – US Treasuries and the dollar both weakened, raising questions about US exceptionalism. With fears of a recession rising and confidence deteriorating, Trump reversed course: he affirmed central bank independence and paused tariff escalation, setting a 90-day negotiation window.
- Equity markets duly recovered, credit spreads narrowed, and bond yields fell. However, the damage to sentiment lingered. Key concerns include the economic impact of tariffs, shaken confidence in US policymaking, and the cost of strategic goals like decoupling from China and reshoring supply chains. Inflationary pressures from tariffs – combined with a slowing US economy – raise the risk of stagflation. While markets are pricing in four rate cuts by year-end, the Fed may be more cautious, especially as hard data like employment and spending remain firm.
- Globally, risks are skewed toward slower growth. China's excess production may create deflationary spillovers, prompting looser policy elsewhere. The exception is Japan, where gradual tightening is expected.
- US assets underperformed. The S&P 500 fell -4.0% in April, while UK mid and small caps returned 2.2% and 3.6% respectively. Additionally, European and Japanese equities rose by 1.2% and 1.9% as flows have shifted towards non-US markets, amid concerns that US corporates may be early casualties of the trade conflict.
- While near-term risks remain, we see potential upside. Tax cuts, falling energy prices, AI-driven productivity gains, and eventual tariff resolutions may support growth. Volatility has highlighted the value of diversification across and within asset classes. We remain cautiously constructive and will seek opportunities to add risk as conditions evolve.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Prior to 15.04.2024 the Momentum Passive Plus Moderate Portfolio was known as pi Balanced Portfolio.

Fact sheet geographic allocation percentages are in some cases based on the normalised (or benchmark) asset allocations of investee funds, as opposed to the actual exposures of those funds at the date of the fact sheet. This reflects the expected average allocation over time which will result from decisions to hold particular funds.

Nothing contained herein constitutes investment, legal, tax or other advice nor is it to be solely relied on in making an investment or other decision. If you are considering investing in the Momentum Passive Plus Portfolios ("Portfolios") clients should consult a suitably qualified and approved Financial Adviser. The performance shown represents performance of the Portfolios that are periodically restructured and rebalanced based on the impact of material, economic and market factors that influence MGIM's decision-making on asset allocation. The Portfolios are applied to client accounts by the platform provider but it may take some time for the client accounts to mirror the performance of the Portfolios. It is for this reason that client accounts may not have achieved exactly the same returns as the Portfolios. The performance of the Portfolios is based on the actual performance of the underlying funds included in the portfolios. These performance figures have not been audited by an external body. The value of investments may go down as well as up and the value will depend on fluctuations in financial markets outside MGIM's control, as a result an investor may not get back the amount invested.
